Every part of the world is becoming compact by obtaining a new language. And the need for this type of procedure is getting increased rapidly. The word compact states that, possessing one language help you to move forward i.e. you will be able to think, to speak and to do other activities in the context of that language; it means you will explore a new and totally different world for yourself. As for this the chain will get continue so then you want to learn more than one. To accomplish this challenge toward learning foreign languages you may have to face with some difficulties. Time, money, desire, place, support and some other aspects can be considered as the hardships of language learning. So we as learners never have a good management of time, something always distracts us to follow our schedule, unexpectedly we spare our time. When we prioritize our time and all the rest of the things, we feel ready to do the activity we want but, here we again may have to face with challenge we need some amount of money and desire to maintain our wish. Even if we create all the required stuff to reach our target we will have a shortage of support or simply can't find an environment we need to enhance or consolidate the knowledge we got during the inquiry. This may seem to be very exasperating procedure and may frustrate the learners of foreign languages. But never mind, we have got a strategy to prevent all those above mentioned challenges. That is called self-study strategy. This is one of the most effective strategies that help us to deal with learning, especially in learning foreign languages.

Yet, exist too many top tips of obtaining this or that language in quite good level, nevertheless the strategy self study is considered to be the core of all the methods. The learner's ability and personality will be taken into account by a teacher that is the reason why this study is so crucial. Majority of students are able to take part in the given condition like location and the community that is unknown to them but most of the students will have a shortage in acquiring the right information. Momentarily they won't have any chance besides relying on learning styles and strategies.

Sometimes independent learning of English can be caused by completely different reasons, for example, maternity leave (and the lack of free time associated with it) or the lack of extra money for English courses. However, regardless of the choice of the way to learn English, one important thing is important - the availability of conversational practice. If it does not exist, then all your knowledge will remain without application and opportunity to improve. In some cases, it is written English, but without a spoken language, your study will be incomplete [1, p.143]. Whatever method of study you choose, independent learning of English in any case will be mandatory to achieve the desired result.

The process of learning a new language involves self study strategy. The learners will follow this strategy unconsciously. Even in traditional educative environment so called "teacher and student" the role of teacher is partial i.e. 30-40% of knowledge can be given by teacher the rest the percentage is up to students' self study. In other perspective the use of independent learning is crucial. Not all the people around the globe are supported with sufficient materials to learn, to study. So they can create this procedure by themselves using self study strategies. The strategy lays out some options that provide an easy way of obtaining the certain information.

Today learning English language has become hot topic to all members of society. Everybody with no matter their age, race and nationality is keen on learning this language. Of course the world is changing and the requirement of life is changing too, so people are pursuing the happiness in different way, most of them doing that in the form of learning English. Because the language as a main factor of international commonwealth will open ups all the doors leading to bright future. And nobody wants to stay aside of these changes. Self study is the best tool for those people to acquire English language according to their own wish.
